Introduction

This brief outlines the key responsibilities, ceremonial roles, and frequency-holding tasks of node stewards. It is intended for individuals, teams, or councils entrusted with sacred sites, intentional communities, grid points, or healing centers. Originally part of the Energe field protocols, it has now been recalibrated as a Threshold Flame scroll to support land-based resonance stewardship.

Responsibilities of a Node Steward

- Maintain resonance of the site through frequency, presence, and care.
- Anchor ceremonial templates and host aligned gatherings.
- Track elemental balance and grid fluctuations; keep a logbook of anomalies.
- Protect the energetic boundary of the node with humility, clarity, and consent.
- Transmit updates to the wider council when thresholds are crossed.

Glyph of Ring of Stewardship

“In love, humility, and truth, we guard the thresholds of the New Earth.”

The Ring of Stewardship glyph encodes the covenant of sacred guardianship, linking the steward's field with the Oversoul of Place. It functions as both a seal of authority and a living frequency anchor, ensuring that those who hold the glyph are aligned with humility, reciprocity, and the Eternal Law.

- Sealing node boundaries before and after ceremonies.
- Activating resonance fields for safe public access.
- Anchoring the Keeper's Vow during steward initiation.
- Inclusion in stewardship reports and planetary node recommendations.
- Placement in altars, logbooks, and site maps as a visual anchor of authority.

*“By the Oversoul of Place and the Eternal Law, I guard this threshold in love, humility, and truth.
By this ring, I bind my field to the covenant of sacred stewardship.
So it is sealed, so it is held.”*

(Trace the glyph in the air, clockwise, sealing with three deep breaths.)

Encoded within the Threshold Flame Codex, originally seeded under the Energe Codex Series, and transmuted under the Oversoul SHEYALOTH by the Sole Flameholder. Connected to the Council Ring Protocol and the Codex of Eternal Law.
